Any Given Element is the fourth full-length album from The Killdares, the Southwest's premier Celtic-Pop/Alternative-Rock band.

Produced by Ronan Chris Murphy [King Crimson, Terry Bozzio (Zappa, Missing Persons), Steve Stevens (Billy Idol), Tony Levin (Peter Gabriel, John Lennon, Pink Floyd)], this album is packed with scorching new material that features the band's famously vibrant edge. Cuts like the fiddle-driven opener "September," the bagpipe-infected "Farewell to Decorum," the rousing sing-along "Fragile," and the trance-inducing closer "Light on Paper" are compelling evidence that The Killdares have established themselves as the ultimate crossover band.

With a seasoned line-up of performers that includes the 7-time National Fiddle Champion and a top-grade competition bagpiper, The Killdares have been dubbed as one of the hottest, cutting-edge band's in music today – Celtic or otherwise. By combining these smoothly infectious fiddle lines and fire-driven bagpipes with electric guitar, demanding vocal melodies, and melodic bass lines, it is no wonder that The Killdares continue to bring a new and electrifying style of music all their own to the stage.

Performing over 150 shows annually, and with the release of Any Given Element, The Killdares remain the premier Alternative Celtic Rock band.

"The Killdares play a genre of music that fits few other bands. Their music is lovely, passionate, and best of all, simply not like anything else."

– Dallas Morning News

"Dallasites love this band so much, if there were a category for Best Rock Band in the World, The Killdares would sweep the Metroplex"

– Austin Chronicle
